©2011 Education Inspired

Grades: K-adult

Subject: Fruit of the Spirit

Group: 3-6

Materials: Boards for each student, square covers for each student, set of cards for each group, pencils

Procedure:

1. Make copies of the game board, one for each student, and get bingo covers or cut squares of paper.

*If you do not want to use the words in the word box, there is a blank template at the end of this file.

2. Check the question cards to be sure you understand them. Make your own new cards to match the way you have studied the fruit of the Spirit if you need/want to.

3. Cut out the question cards.

4. Put the game in a center to play. (Make sure students know how to play the game before asking them to play it independently.)

Modifications:

English Language Learners: Allow students to make the question cards for you by putting synonyms from their native language on the cards for them to match the English words.

Struggling Students: Help them write the words from the word box onto the board and review their meanings while writing. For students who need additional help, allow them to work with a partner.

Write one word from the box in each square. Pick up a card and place it face up where all students can see it. All players find the answer and mark it, but do not say the answer out loud. Put the cards used in a new pile. Take turns turning over cards until someone covers four in a row. Then the group must check the cards and the answers covered to make sure the correct answers are marked. If they are, that player wins the game.

Place the cards in the middle of the group. Pick up a card and read it out loud. All players find the answer on their own papers and mark it. Put the cards that have been read in a new pile. Take turns reading cards until someone covers four squares in a row. Then the group must check the cards and the answers covered to make sure the correct answers are marked. If they are, that player wins the game.
