Purpose: To build comprehension, focus attention during reading, increase understanding through socialization, consider various points of view, and make meaningful connections to a reading selection

Materials: reading selection

Procedure:

- Students work in small groups.
- Students individually read a small section of the reading selection.
- After reading the section students select one sentence that is interesting to them.
- Students read their sentences aloud to the group, explain why they chose the sentences they did, and allow students to respond to their sentence.
- Once all students in the group have shared about their sentences, students read another section of the reading selection and repeat the process.
- Students repeat the process until the entire reading selection has been read.
